STANFORD, LINCOLN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY OCTOBER 31, 1911.

EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

BECKHAM SPEAKS HERE FOR MCCREARY.

Urges Voters To See That Splendid Democratic Ticket Is Elected
—Riddies O'Rear.

Notwithstanding the fact that it was a very inconvenient day for farmers to come to town, a splendid and representative audience heard former Governor J. C. W. Beckham speak at the court house last Friday afternoon on behalf of McCreary for Governor and the Democratic ticket. Everyone who heard him was greatly pleased with his remarks, and all declared that he had done the ticket a great amount of good.

Gov. Beckham arrived on the morning train from Louisville, having been speaking in Western Kentucky. He was introduced by Shelton Searley, whose guest he was while in the city. The ex-governor went from here to Lancaster where he spoke to a large crowd on Saturday afternoon.

In his address here, Gov. Beckham devoted considerable attention to a comparison of the record of the democratic and republican parties in Kentucky, proving that the Democrats had fulfilled every promise made by them in the past, that they were now within a few statutes of Kentucky, while the Republicans had not fulfilled a single pledge from the county unit bill to the dog law. He pointed with pride to the building of the Capitol and the establishing of the Confederate Home during the Democratic administration, together with the paying off of the $2,000,000 debt made by the Republicans, and asked the people of Lincoln county what the republicans had been doing during the past four years but spend all the money in the treasury and run the state in debt $1,000,000.

Gov. Beckham said in part: "The Republican party has been given a fair trial in the Government, both of the nation and of the State. For nearly 14 years it has been in control of the Federal Government, and has made plain to all discerning people its policies and methods and its purposes. There ought now to be no doubt in the mind of any citizen, with intelligence enough to deserve the right of suffrage, as to what that party stands for, or as to how far it will go in the reckless and selfish abuse of power. So great and apparent has this become that a violent seism has arisen in that party.

"The split in the party is nationwide, deep-seated and one of the most hopeful signs of better things in present political conditions. The heaven of Democratic principles has been slowly but surely doing the work and, while the party of the people in these long years of exile has not captured the offices or the emoluments of power, it has, nevertheless, by its fidelity to principle captured the best and most intelligent element in the party of its rival, and has won a great moral victory in the recognition of the truth and strength of its principles.

"The progressive elements of the country, no matter with what parties they may have affiliated in the past must, in the coming struggle, enlist under the banner of Democracy if they expect to secure any relief at all from the burdensome and unjust conditions created and prolonged by the party now in power.

"May we not expect such a verdict when we see their record is so bad that even the Republican nominee for Governor and his supporters in Kentucky refused to defend that record, and plead that it should not be mentioned in this campaign? Think of it, and marvel, my friends, a republican national administration so wicked and so unpopular that even a Kentucky Republican dares not to praise or defend it, lest he might lose votes by doing so!

"The astute and adroit Republican nominee, if elected, is to be the judge of what part of his platform is composed of serious promises and what part 'bouquet'. The McCulloch letter and some other events of the campaign indicate that he considers the county unit plank in his platform as nothing more than a 'bouquet'. His remarkable utterance, at the convention which nominated him, about the senatorial election shows beyond doubt that what he and his platform say about lobbyists is, after all, only another 'bouquet'.

The best features in that platform were taken bodily and almost verbatim from Democratic platforms of the past. They are so new to Judge O'Rear and to his party that he imagines he first discovered them, and he has been parading before the people in this campaign pretending to be the first and only genuine apostle to advocate those principles and reforms, for which, in fact, Democratic leaders have been contending for many years.

"He seems to adapt himself to the peculiar conditions of each section, wherein he speaks, and to change his costumes to meet the exigencies of each particular place. In the Republican strongholds of Eastern Kentucky he is a raging lion of Republicanism, playing on the prejudices of his party followers and inciting them to partisan loyalty to his banner. But in the Democratic region of Central or Western Kentucky he quickly changes his costume into a lamblike raiment of patriotism and broad nonpartisanship, and would have the democrats believe that he is not much of a Republican after all.

"What a spectacle! How marvelous his quick transformation! Who could recognize, thundering his partisanship to his followers in the neighborhood of the Big Sandy, and a few days thereafter pleading his Democracy to the tillers of the soil near the Mississippi!

"He and his supporters bitterly complain that Democratic leaders of other States have been brought into Kentucky in this campaign to discuss national issues. Why not? Has it not been done in every state campaign in recent years by his own party as well as the Democratic party? as not his party brought into the State Roosevelt, Fairbanks, Cabot, officers, Senators and other Republicans of national prominence to help it in every State campaign except this one? And why not now?

"Simply because the Judge, smart and adroit as he is, knows that if he brought here any of the standard leaders, like Taft, Cannon, Aldrich or Payne, it would hurt his ticket, and the progressive Republican leaders, like LaFollette of Cummins, who might help it, would not think of coming here to speak for a ticket that endorsed the Administration of Taft and the course of Senator Bradley.

"In endorsing Senator Bradley his platform in effect endorses Senator Aldrich and his policies, for in every instance, in the consideration of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, where the interests of the people were urged against the interests of the favored classes, Senator Bradley voted with Aldrich and against the people, even upon questions where the private fortunes of Aldrich and of his family were increased by such a vote, and upon practically every other question in the National Congress the Republican Representatives and Senator from Kentucky have voted against the interests of the people.

"He says that he is violently opposed to the lobby or third house at Frankfort, not at Washington, mark you—and would have the people believe that he is the only man to fight that lobby. Every honest Democrat in Kentucky is opposed to the lobby, whether Frankfort or Washington.

"The people of Kentucky haven't much faith in Judge O'Rear's denunciations of the lobby after reading his speech at Lexington before his nomination, and his speech at Louisville just after his nomination.

"Judge O'Rear would not permit his platform committee to mention the name of Gov. Willson, but allowed an endorsement of Gov. Willson's administration. The curious citizen may examine the Republican platform of four years ago, upon which Gov. Willson and his ticket were elected, with its numerous and brilliant promises, and he will search in vain to find one line of its promises fulfilled after nearly four years of power for that administration.

"His cause is so discredited that not only has it no champion, but it is even without an apologist, none so poor as to do it reverence, and no one so fatuous as to try to make excuses for it. It came into power by deceiving the people with false charges against the Democratic administration; it charged graft in the construction of the new Capitol it charged mismanagement in the public institutions, and it charged graft and misconduct in practically every branch of the State administration, but time and searching investigations have proven every one of its charges false; and as it stands today before the people of Kentucky convicted of having deceived them and of having secured the possession of the State Government under false pretenses.

"And yet Judge O'Rear's platform endorses—grudgingly, it may be—on political reasons, that administration. He considers its record so odious that in the many speeches he has made in this campaign he has not once attempted to defend it.

"The platform of the democratic party in this campaign is plain and explicit. Its promises will be faithfully fulfilled if its ticket is elected. That ticket is an excellent one. It deserves success. Gov. McCreary, our candidate for Governor, is a clean, honorable, capable man. He has been tried and found faithful to every trust. He will redeem every promise he has made to the people. His past life and his public services are a guarantee that he will serve his people again with fidelity and with credit to himself and to his party. Judge O'Rear seems to worry himself with the idea that Gov. McCreary did not support the Democratic nominee for Senator in the Senatorial election of 1908.

"I supported that McCreary for the nomination, and I shall cordially support him for election, because I believed his nomination was the best for the party, and that his election on the 7th of November would assure to the people of Kentucky a clean, capable and successful administration for the next four years.

"For the sake of the honor and welfare of our proud old commonwealth, and for the sake of the weak and honest hopes and bright prospects of Democracy everywhere let Kentucky Democrats do their duty in this election and by an overwhelming, old-time majority fire the opening gun that will usher in again the golden days of Democratic ascendancy and triumph all over the land."

In concluding, Gov. Beckham paid a splendid tribute to Hon. W. H. Shanks, who has so ably represented Lincoln county in the legislature for the past two terms and urged the democrats of Lincoln to see that he is returned again.

Hon. W. H. Shanks and T. J. Hill, Jr., will address the voters of Waynesburg Saturday afternoon, Nov. 4th on behalf of the Democratic ticket. All are invited to hear them.

REVENUE AGENT GRABS LOCAL MEN.

Republican State Administration
Keeps Its Sleuths Busy After Money To Pay Expenses

State Auditor's Agent G. W. Gilfillan, of Frankfort, came over last week and caught a number of local men for back taxes on notes, and other items. He incidentally took out of town the neat little sum of $301.14 for himself as a result of his day's work. This was 20 per cent. on the total amount collected, which footed up to $1,505. Among those who were caught by him were T. W. Hatcher, W. P. Newell, Mrs. N. A. Garner, Emmet McCormack, W. O. Speed, J. H. Corns, J. A. McLean, Mrs. M. C. Matheny, J. H. Baughman, Agnes Herrin, George Holmes, J. T. Buckley, George H. Harris, Exor., S. H. Baughman, P. M. McRoberts, Exor., A. M. Frye, Annie D. Yowell, Mrs. Marie McKittrick, George W. Carter, J. E. Gover and S. T. Harris.

In addition to the fee of 20 per cent. allowed the revenue agent by the law for collecting, a fee of 15 per cent. goes to the County Attorney, and the sheriff gets his regular four per cent. collecting fee, while the County Clerk gets the $2 recording fee.

There has been much complaint within the past few years of the spying about of the republican revenue agents, who have exhausted nearly every effort possible to dig up enough money to pay the expenses of the state government, fast being carried into deeper debt by the present republican administration. Not only has Governor Willson's State Board of Equalization increased the taxes on the farms over the state $61,000,000, but the revenue detectives have been nosing about everywhere searching for more money to pay the heavy expenses, saddled upon the people.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKERS

To Live Up Things In Old Lincoln County This Week.

Circuit Clerk J. Walker Crossfield, of Anderson county, one of the best known democrats in the Eighth Congressional district, has accepted an invitation to deliver several speeches for the democratic party in Lincoln county this week. He and K. S. Alcorn billed to speak at Moreland on Thursday night, November 2, while he will speak with T. J. Hill, Jr., at Tammerville on Friday night, October 3rd.

Hon. W. H. Shanks, Democratic nominee for the Legislature, and T. J. Hill will speak at Waynesburg at half past one o'clock next Saturday afternoon and at King's Mountain at half past seven that night.

Hon. J. S. Owsley and Kendrick Alcorn will speak at Yorkum's schoolhouse on Friday night, and Sam Owens, who is working hard in that section of the county says a big crowd will be out to hear them.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Moore.

Effie Emily, the beautiful little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Moore, of Crab Orchard, died at their home there last week after a short illness of typhoid fever. The little girl was only eight years of age but was said to be one of the sweetest and most winsome children in the east end and her death has occasioned much sorrow among her many friends. Mrs. Moore is herself also very ill of the dread disease and her friends and loved ones are very uneasy over her condition. The family have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their bereavement. The little one was buried in the Crab Orchard cemetery after services by Mr. J. C. McClary.

Former Governor Beckham spoke here Saturday afternoon to a crowd of farmers, being introduced by James I. Hamilton. The able young statesman lucidly expounded both state and national issues, frequently eliciting prolonged applause. Quite a delegation of women showed their approval of democratic principles by being in attendance.

Garrard farmers have taken advantage of the past week of good weather and sowed their wheat; some postponed it till the latter part of the week and found the soil in good condition, one granger remarking that his wheat sowing was more satisfactory to him than it has been for several years.

Garrard tobacco growers have all safely housed their tobacco crops, and find the quality of the weed more than ordinarily good. Stripping has not as yet begun, some of the farmers postponing it until about the first of December, because of corn gathering. Mr. Woods Walker very likely has the largest crop of the county about 75 acres, and it is of the very best quality.

BLIND TIGER OPERATOR MAY DIE FROM WOUND

Mysterious Man Who Says He's From Lexington, Shot By Posse at King's Mountain.

In grave danger of dying from a shot wound in his right arm, J. W. Clark, a white man who says he is from Lexington, lies in the County jail here to serve out a fine of $240 and costs assessed against him by Squire J. A. Singleton, of Waynesburg, on a charge of selling whiskey unlawfully at King's Mountain.

Clark was captured by Deputy Sheriff Theodore Reynolds and a posse of men last week after an exciting chase, when evidence had been secured that he was selling whisky at King's Mountain. He endeavored to make his escape when the posse got after him, and one of them fired a shotgun at him, the lead striking him in the right arm. At first it was not thought that the wound was very serious, and Squire Singleton held his trial in his magistrate's court there, but when the prisoner had been brought to jail here, the wound began to develop serious complications. Gangrene set in and the flesh on his right arm began to drop away from the bone. Jailer Frank Farmer gave the injured man every attention possible, and Dr. O'Bannon has given him faithful treatment, but has been decided that the only way to save the man's life is to amputate the arm and the member will be cut off on Wednesday morning in an effort to save his life.

Clark maintains an air of mystery and will tell nothing of his history except that he is from near Lexington. He is a man apparently about 45 years of age. Jailer Farmer believes that the name Clark he gave was an assumed name, and says there is evidently something he is holding back.

The places of several election officers, previously named by the County Board of Election Commissioners, and who had declined were ineligible to serve, were filled at a meeting of the Board on Saturday night. C. Arnold, who is a candidate for Councilman, and Joe Koontz was appointed sheriff at Waynesburg in place of J. K. Williams who could not serve.

In answer to a direct question from Editor Desha Beckwith, of the Lexington Herald, Sinclair, the republican nominee for lieutenant governor, practically admitted at Georgetown last week, that Judge O'Rear had promised to be absent from his office enough, if elected governor, to enable him to make up the difference in salary between that of the lieutenant governor and Secretary of state for which Sinclair was at first a candidate. O'Rear probably wishes to equal the record of Wilson, who has been absent from the state almost a full year during his four year's term of office, and yet has drawn full salary all of the time, and while the lieutenant governor was getting the same salary for acting as governor. There could be little reason to hope for any improvement anyway with O'Rear holding on to his Court of Appeals seat for three or four months while prosecuting his canvass for governor, and drawing his $15 a day from the people just the same.

If we are not mistaken, our old friend T. J. Culton, one of the best known republicans of the East End would have liked mighty well to have had a chance to run for representative. But the star chamber action of the republican county committee didn't give him a chance. He and the others of the "Lily White" republicans are going to have little coming there way when the present republican county committee has its way.

Elder Hubbard is having a hard time convincing the temperance people that he is sincere in his adoption of the County Unit bill since being declared the republican nominee for the legislature. His record as a whisky man before that is too well known for his sudden change of front to be accepted very seriously.

Governor Beckham's splendid speech did much good for the party here last Friday. He particularly urged every friend of his to go to the polls on election day and stamp under the rooster. The old party is remitted this year as never before, and friends of Beckham friends of McCreary and of all other party leaders are right in line behind the splendid ticket.

One week from today the battle of ballots will be decided, and we are supremely confident that McCreary and his splendid ticket will be returned to winners. Just to see what a good guesser we are we are going to estimate majorities in the eleven congressional district of the state, and will see how the vote tallies with these. We estimate the majorities in the district will be about as follows:

	Dem.	Rep
First district	10,000
Second district	5,000
Third district	2,000
Fourth district	5,000
Fifth district	3,000
Sixth district	7,000
Seventh district	7,000
Eighth district	3,000
Ninth district	1,500
Tenth district	1,000
Eleventh district	25,000
Total majorities	43,500	26,000
Dem. majority	17,500

A vote for Will Shanks means a vote to send Ollie James to the United States Senate. In no other way can you benefit him, because the legislature to be chosen in November will either elect him or send Langley or Caleb Powers in his stead. Every great principle that the Democratic party stands for will be on trial in the Senate for the next few years, and a man of Ollie James' great intellect and high courage is needed there to fight the battles of the people.

Ollie James says that the moving pictures which the O'Rear people are using to get votes in the mountains, won't change half as fast as O'Rear changes his position on public questions before the people.

When a minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ gets down from the pulpit and into mire of politics to scramble for a measly little office doesn't it look like there is something wrong with him somehow?

Great crowds are greeting Bryan who is swinging through western Kentucky this week spending for McCreary.

DESERVED TRIBUTE TO McCREARY.

At Fulton last week, Rev. W. T. Bowling, formerly pastor of the Methodist church there, introduced Senator McCreary and paid him a great tribute. In his introductory speech Dr. Bowling said:

"Kentuckians, irrespective of religion or politics, should feel proud that they had a man of the high character of Senator McCreary, who has been in politics for more than 40 years without a blot on his character, either private or political, and that they should feel it an honor to vote for such a man. He said that during his entire career he had never met a man who proved so faithful to the trusts given him by his fellow-men and that it was not only a duty but should be a pleasure to all Kentuckians to again elevate him to the highest office within the gift of the people. He said men of the character and ability of Senator McCreary were needed in Kentucky more at the present than at any time within his memory, and in presenting him he said:

"Fellow Christians and fellow citizens, I wish to present to you not only an Ex-Governor of your Commonwealth but the next Governor, Senator McCreary.

Dr. Bowling was preceded by the Rev. Charles K. Marshall, formerly of Richmond, but now pastor of the Christian church in Fulton, and he, too, paid a tribute to Senator McCreary, Christian type, and one whom all Kentuckians should be proud.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardul.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardul as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help.

I had almost lost my reason, but, thanks to Cardul, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have reaped great benefit from it."

Cardul acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health. It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical. Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women. In every community, there live some who have been benefited by Cardul. The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways. Try it.

GIRDLING OF ORCHARD TREES

Loss and Injury Done by Mice, Rabbits and Woodchucks Estimated at $1 Per Acre Yearly.

THE H. F. HALL, JR. Little data is available which would render possible anywhere near a correct estimate of the loss of and injury to trees, young and old, through the work of mice, rabbits and woodchucks. While the loss is confined principally to newly-set orchards, replants in older orchards and the younger plantations generally, this loss, in the aggregate, is considerable. It certainly would not be far beyond the bounds of conservatism to figure the loss and injury at one dollar per acre per year including all ages and conditions of apple, pear and plum orchards.

The rate of loss would be less than Bridge-Grafting in Detail.

1. Wound.
2. Sclon.
3. Wax.
4. Bark.

this in the large commercial plantations, even where the grass-mulch method of culture is practiced; for the commercial planter generally takes into consideration the various sources of danger and makes provision to meet these with effective means of protection. With the average home orchard the danger is greater than in the large plantation, and the possible means of protection more generally disregarded or overlooked.

If young trees be girdled in late spring just as growth is beginning, they may be successfully treated by blinding about the wounded parts a heavy covering of smooth tenacious soft clay. A new bark will sometimes form beneath the clay if the inner bark or cambium be not entirely destroyed. It is safer, however, to insert a few long scions.

This is called "bridge-grafting." The sap circulation of the tree, cut off by the wound made by the rodents, is resumed through the scions which become a part of the tree—enlarging and growing together until, in after years, only a slight enlargement or "bulge" on the trunk of the tree thus treated will be noticeable.

In bridge-grafting, the wounds should be made clean and smooth with a sharp knife and covered entirely with grafting wax. The scions should be cut a trifle longer than the span to be bridged so that when they are inserted, their curving form will tend to keep them firmly fixed in position. The two ends of the scions are cut to a thin, wedge form. Incisions are made in the bark with a narrow chisel—those above the wound sloping upward and those below sloping downward. Insert the scions firmly and wax heavily and securely all wounds made in the operation, especially care being exercised to press the wax in firmly and neatly about the point of union of scions with the body of the tree.

To make grafting wax melt together four parts (by weight) of resin, two parts of beeswax and one part of tallow. Pour the mixture into a pail or tub of cold water. As the mass begins to cool so that it can be handled, grease the hands with tallow and pull and work the lump of wax until it becomes quite light in color. Form into small balls or sticks for convenient use. This wax will keep in good condition indefinitely.

When to Spray.

The proper time to spray fruit trees can be determined only by watching the fruit buds and weather. The first application should be made before the first rain after the blossom buds have been exposed, but before they have opened; the second, after two-thirds of the petals have fallen, being sure to get the mixture on ahead of the rain; and the third about two weeks later. Watch the fruit buds and the weather.

Wounds on Trees.

For wounds on trees, melt resin and pour three parts into one part of previously warmed crude petroleum. This will not run in warm weather.

DAIRY WINDOW IS IMPORTANT

Practical Arrangement is Shown in Illustration to Prevent Draft on Cows While in Barn.

Dairy cows should never have a draft on them in the barn, so I had my windows made in such a way that they can be opened from the top, as shown by c, says a writer in Farm and Home. The carpenters attached a three-cornered board, a a, at each side of the window to prevent wind coming in from the sides when the window is open. There are cleats, b, in these boards to hold the windows at the proper place. In the summer I like to have the windows wide open. I don't care then if there is a draft through the barn, so these windows were put in loose and can be opened at one side, as shown by d.

Modern Barn Window.

NOT MERE MILKING MACHINE

Story of Man Who Sought to Make Fortune in Dairy Business—Started With Nondescript Cows.

(By H. B. BUCKHAM.)
Among my acquaintances there is numbered a man who recently decided to make a trial of furnishing milk for the local market. Having ventured into several other branches of agriculture without having achieved any great success at any one of them, he determined to attempt this; make one more play for favor at the hands of Dame Fortune.

For a start, he purchased half a dozen cows of nondescript extraction, and set himself up in the business of a milk farmer. His idea seemed to be that all he had to do was to feed a little grain and hay to these animals, night and morning, and in return receive an abundant supply of milk, the equivalent of ten times and more, in value.

But before he had been at it long he found that he had made a mistake in his calculations, somewhere. The account was running against him, instead of in his favor. He was playing a losing game, once more!

What was the trouble? Simply this, that he had misjudged animal nature, in one respect, at least. There is no such thing as a milk machine, patented or unpatented, into which you can pass hay or grain at one end at your pleasure, and pull a valve and draw off milk from another, to your fancy. At any rate, a cheap, scrubby cow is not such a machine, and cannot be made over into one. These six cows turned out to be just ordinary, barren quantity milkers, a burden and expense upon any man who assumed their care and keep. And now they are for sale, away below what he paid for them, but are a poor bargain at that.

CAUSE AND REMEDY.

Uncertainty of the immediate future is looked upon by many men of affairs, as a blockade to enterprise and business prosperity, and this blockade is now quite apparent throughout the channels of trade.

The Presidential Election; the efforts of Congress with no fixed purpose; Organized Labor as a new factor in politics; together with other matters of greater or less import, represent at this time a chaotic conflict of separate interests, to harmonize which is now the problem before the country.

All want Prosperity, Peace and Plenty. Read with care the Cincinnati Enquirer, a journal that prints all the news each day from every commercial center throughout the world. A barometer of causes and effects that points out, as a Beacon Light, the danger and the safeguard therefrom.

As well known, the Daily Enquirer is the largest in size and highest priced paper in the United States, yet cheapest, measured by quality and quantity.

The Weekly Enquirer, with the cream and digest of all the news, able and conservative editorials, market reports, methods and results from Government and State Experiment Stations, veterinary matters, People's Forum, choice literature, short and continued stories, non-sectarian sermons, general information, etc., with the exclusion of all matters of scandal and immorality, is today the Cleanest Weekly Family Journal obtainable. Each issue is alone worth the price of a year's subscription.

Solicitors for subscriptions make a handsome profit and increase the good influence of The Enquirer in the uplift of morality and industry, and for the betterment and welfare of the community. For terms write to The Enquirer, Cincinnati, Ohio.

STANFORD EASILY BEATS SOMERSET AGAIN

Local Football Boys Now Claiming High School Championship of State—Score 67 to 0.

Playing the fastest and best football it has shown yet this season, the Stanford High School eleven "mopped" up with the Somerset boys here Saturday afternoon to the tune of 67 to 0. The result came as a great surprise to the local football fans. Somerset had held our lads to 14 to 0 on the grounds there, and a closer game was looked for here. However, with the game against the school for the dead boys under their belt, the local lads were so full of fire that they simply could not be stopped at any stage of the game. Somerset claimed to have suffered severely through the loss of Tom-verse, one of their best men who was put out of the game here early on account of injuries. However, Stanford had one of her most reliable ground gainers, Wesley Embury, out of the line-up because of a foul, and his absence crippled our boys about as much as did Tom-verse the visitors.

As a result of this game Stanford is claiming the high school championship of the state, having already run up a total of 148 points this season to 0 for her opponents. The Lexington high school defeated Louisville by 5 to 0 Saturday and Prof. Ireland is making an effort to book a game with Lexington to settle the championship. If Lexington refuses to play, Stanford will rightly claim the championship for she has clearly shown the class of the high schools in this section, so far this season.

A practice game will be played this Tuesday afternoon against the C. U. Freshmen on the grounds here and some good work should be seen. On Saturday Stanford goes to Danville to meet the D. & D. eleven.

The Stanford boys played such extra fine ball last Saturday that it is hard to go into detail about the game. Tom Coleman particularly distinguished himself, playing the best football he has shown yet, and running his brother, Harris, a close game for the honors of the day. Will McCarty's drop kicking was splendid, a nice field goal being the result and John M. Waters was much better on kicking goals. Little Cy Anderson played a great game in the line while Harry Reinhart on right end did some extra nice work, getting through and blocking a punt at a critical stage of the game. Both Embury and Mike Penny will be in the next game and will add consid-

TAYLOR-DAVIS.

Beautiful Wedding Solemnized at Home of the Bride.

One of the beautiful autumn weddings was that of Miss Florence Taylor and Mr. Jackson Davis, which was solemnized Tuesday evening at the bride's home by Rev. J. P. Strother assisted by Rev. J. Q. A. McDowell. Just before the bride party formed Mrs. Lillian Jones Smith, of Caldwell College, sang, "Oh, Perfect Love." Miss Gladys Shailer beautifully rendered Lohengrin's wedding march. The bride party entered from the hall into the parlor preceded by Miss Monte Taylor and Miss Joy Taylor bearing the ribbons. Next came the bridesmaids, Miss Mary McDowell, Miss Nancy Logan, Miss Winnie Cain, Miss Anna Louise Fee, Miss Margaret Ham, Miss Margaret Bean, Miss Isabel Caldwell and Miss Louise Lee. Then the ring bearer, little Miss Rose Taylor, followed by the bride, accompanied by her maid of from the dining room and formed a semi-circle. The home was beautifully decorated in pink and white flowers and ferns, and the same colors were carried out in the ices and cakes. The bride was becomingly gowned in white marquisette over white satin and the bridesmaid were pretty in white mull over pink silk. Mrs. Davis is a very charming young woman and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Taylor. Mr. Davis is a well known and popular young man of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Davis will reside in Danville.—Danville Messenger.

PROF. WINFREY IN SCRAP.

(Middlesboro Record.)

As a result of an encounter Saturday evening in front of S. B. Gray & Co's., store between Prof. M. O. Winfrey and Harvey Hughes, in which the former was struck in the left eye by Mr. Hughes while wearing his glasses, Prof. Winfrey has been confined to the King's Daughters Hospital since Sunday. For awhile fears were entertained by his attending physicians that he would lose the sight of this member in the next week or ten days. Hundreds of Prof. Winfrey's friends have called during his stay at the hospital to express their regret and sympathy. As an evidence of the high esteem and love in which he is held at the Public Schools, his room has been supplied each day with flowers and fruit from the pupils of the various grades, as well as from inquiring friends.

A BOOST FROM DANVILLE

The Stanford Journal, in a recent issue, published a list of names in connection with the appointment of a master commissioner, to be made by Judge Charles Hardin. In the number we notice that of Mr. Rowan Sanfley. Mr. Sanfley, who is a son of that great lawyer and noble gentleman, the late Judge M. C. Sanfley, is a most capable man, and his appointment would not only be appreciated by his legion of newspaper friends, but be a neat compliment to his distinguished father.—Danville Messenger.

Biliousness is due to a disordered condition of the stomach. Chamberlain's Tablets are essentially a stomach medicine, intended especially to act on that organ; to cleanse it, strengthen it, tone and invigorate it, to regulate the liver and to banish biliousness positively and effectually.
